WALHALLA, S. C.:

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 18, 1912.

CATTLE INSPECTION.

City Council at its last meeting passed an ordinance requiring the inspection of all cattle butchered and offered for sale in Walhalla. This is as it should be. Some years ago it was found necessary to enforce such an ordinance, and it was found of great advantage to the public. The re-enactment of such an ordinance is to be commended and Council should have strong support in the matter.

It would not be amiss to add to the duties of this cattle inspector one more task-that of visiting the markets and seeing that sanitary conditions prevail. The custom of hanging fresh meat out, exposed to dust and germs and flies is something that should be looked after. The danger from such conditions does not apply simply to meats, however. Any article of food exposed in the open is a menace to health.

DON'T MAKE THIS MISTAKE.

We are informed that the plans are under way, or are being considered, for the enlargement of the High School building in Walhalla. This work will be one of the greatest advance steps the town and school district could make. But-

Let us not make a mistake if possible to avoid it.

Our information is that the contemplated auditorium will have a seating capacity of five hundred.

This being the case—if the plan is carried out-we will find, when too late for remedy, that we have made a serious mistake.

In planning for the auditorium no figures showed about 14,000,000 votes cast. That means that at least 8,000,000 or 9,000,000 votes were not cast at that election. It is believed that there will be in the neighborhood of 17,000,000 votes cast next November in the Presidential election.—Augusta Chronicle.

Is that all? We thought we had more than that number right here in South Carolina.—Columbia Record. Not yet, quite; but two more years of unprecedented "vote growth" will put us a long way toward the goal. We have doubtless adopted in South Carolina intensive politics—"make two votes grow where one grew before."

"Automobile . etes" prove quite a eature of interest in all the popular magazines these days. There is also an interest feature attached to the notes given when the "joy wagon" was bought. But there's a dratted sight of difference between the two.

FUNDS FOR DEMOCRACY.

Of course every one knows that there are necessary and honest expenses attached to every campaign, and we all know that if the Democratic party is to be victorious this year the National Committee must have funds with which to prosecute a vigorous campaign of "spreading the gospel of Democracy." So far Oconee has had but little part in the entributions to the campaign this year. The Columbia State has received from this county only $15. Rev.
